THE CONFIDENCE TO SOAR

For people with intellectual disability, society's expectations of what they can and can't do often prevents them from experiencing new things and meeting new people.

Despite these roadblocks, Tara Leask is digging deep to find the courage and confidence to embrace new challenges.

"I have had an intellectual disability my whole life, but it has taken me 17 years to overcome my fears." Tara said.

"I tell myself just to breathe, and be brave, and face your fears."

A large part of this practice to help Tara overcome her anxiety is provided by support from Endeavour Foundation's Learning and Lifestyle Labrador team.
