REAL WINNERS SERIES

MEET SARAH OUR ANNIVERSARY LOTTERY #428 PRIZE HOME WINNER

Unbeknown to Sarah, while working from home on a seemingly regular Thursday, Head of Lotteries, Kirsty Moore was trying to get in touch with Sarah to tell her some amazing news. Sarah's lucky ticket number had just been drawn as the winning one for Endeavour Foundation's 69th Anniversary Prize Home Lottery located at Flaxton on the Sunshine Coast Hinterland. Due to an unstable internet connection Sarah was using her phone's Wi-Fi connection to do her work, and any calls would interrupt this, so she rejected them. But this was a call worth taking!

When Sarah finally got back to Kirsty, she couldn't believe the life-changing news. Everyone she has told has said "wow, I can't believe that people actually win these things". They sure do, and Sarah is living proof.

As Sarah says, "it's a win, win" for the real people who win amazing prizes and the vital funds that each supporter and lottery ticket sold contributes towards supporting people with intellectual disability.

WHAT IT MEANS TO HAVE AN INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY ACCORDING TO JANE

I know what a disability is. I have the disability that is Down syndrome. It's tricky to describe what having a disability feels like. I was born with it.

When I was born the doctor had some news to tell mum and dad that I have a disability. At first my dad was very sad with tears on his face. He loves me so much and I am his beautiful girl. He still knows that I have that disability. But he understands it now. Fully understands it now. Now instead of crying we laugh together. We do.

I wouldn't change things. No I wouldn't. It has been so amazing what I've been through to get here now.

My disability means that I can't do some things. I have some trouble with sports, learning and money sometimes. But people can help me with that. I get extra support, like in the NDIS.

People with disabilities can be so beautiful and they can do anything if they believe to do it. I care about people with disabilities because I know what they are talking about.

If someone has a disability you should try to be patient and read their thoughts to know their feelings. I want people to be comfortable, relaxed and understanding when they talk to me.

I believe in myself. I believe that I can try. I can do anything if I put my mind to it. Sometimes people treat me differently. Sometimes good and sometimes bad.

People who say I can't do something, I say "excuse me, that is your opinion, not mine, so lay off" that's what I say "it's my disability, not yours, so mind your business." Then I go and do amazing things. I can do anything and everything.
