Transport and logistics

This sector uses technology and data to monitor public transport use to better plan services based on demand. Vehicle automation will increase in future to support independent living for people with mobility issues and to create safer roads with the use of sensors and automatic emergency braking.

Jobs of the future include chief digital augmentation officer, drone airspace regulator, innovation manager, robot mechanic and sustainable energy solutions engineer.